* Upright Position

Life jackets that increase Baby's independence!

Placing a baby upright means an increased sense of its own body and developing its muscle tone — the basis of emotional and interpersonal expressivity. The upright position allows integration into its surroundings, enhancing baby's spatial orientation and maturing. For a young child, being upright symbolises coming to terms with the world of independence. Better muscle tone helps psychomotor development and enhances all motor functions. Remember that the ability to stay upright speeds up baby's acquisition of body language, and enhances a baby's closeness with its parents.
